Chapter 1: Foundations of Conflict of Laws

This chapter introduces the basic concepts and principles of conflict of laws. It explores the sources of conflict of laws rules, including treaties, statutes, and case law. It also discusses the concept of jurisdiction and the different types of jurisdiction that may be exercised by courts in transnational disputes.

Chapter 2: Choice of Law

Chapter 2 delves into the central issue of conflict of laws: the choice of law. It examines the various approaches to choice of law, including the traditional territorial approach, the modern interest-analysis approach, and the renvoi doctrine. It also discusses the application of choice of law rules to specific areas of law, such as contracts, torts, and family law.

Chapter 3: Jurisdiction

Chapter 3 focuses on the related issue of jurisdiction. It explores the different types of jurisdiction that courts may exercise, including personal jurisdiction, subject-matter jurisdiction, and territorial jurisdiction. It also discusses the doctrines of forum non conveniens and comity, which can limit the exercise of jurisdiction in certain circumstances.

Chapter 4: Public Policy

Chapter 4 examines the important role of public policy in conflict of laws. It discusses the concept of public policy and its use as a basis for refusing to apply foreign law. It also explores the different ways in which public policy can be applied in transnational disputes.

Chapter 5: Comparative Law

Chapter 5 provides a brief overview of comparative law, which is the study of the laws of different countries. It discusses the role of comparative law in conflict of laws and the different approaches to comparative law. It also explores the use of comparative law in the resolution of transnational disputes.
